LOCAL MAN GETS LETTER FROM CRETE

FIRST WORD OF RELATIVES
SINCE START OF WORLD WAR II

The mails brought a welcome letter to John Tzouanakis a few days ago—word had been received from his relatives in Crete whom he had not heard from since the beginning of the war. John was very happy to learn that all were alive. A brother-in-law had lost a leg when he was caught in a booby trap, but his mother, two sisters, a brother and three nephews serving in the Greek Army were safe.

Crete, an island in the Mediterranean south of Greece, was invaded by Germany near the beginning of the war and it will be recalled that parachute troops spearheaded an invasion for the first time. Since its invasion until the end of the war, the Cretans lived under the German heel. The letter relates how the Germans took food and practically all clothing from the people while they held the island. This letter states that clothing is the greatest single need of these people now and John Tzouanakis has already sent two parcels of clothing weighing the eleven pounds maximum permitted to be sent in any one package.

Leaving Crete in 1912 when a young man, John Tzouanakis came to America and soon after settled in Greencastle. He returned in 1923 and remained with his relatives until 1925. Since then he has not seen any of his relatives in the old country.

It looks now as though a reunion will be effected—but this time it will be Mike Tzouanakis who will represent the family on this side of the Atlantic. Mike is with the 1st Q. M. Co. of the 1st Infantry Division stationed at Wurzburg near Nuremberg, Germany. Mike will make the trip for the reunion as soon as he is able to arrange it.

John Tzouanakis likes America and is a true American citizen. Married to the former Miss Eugenia Reynolds, he and his family of five children have fought War Bonds in every drive and have never turned down a contribution to a worthy cause.

House Split On Anti-Strike Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2, (UP)—House supporters of anti-strike legislation were split sharply today on how strong it should be but they still agreed that sweeping measure would be passed.

Some said, however, that the bickering was hurting their chances of pushing through a really effective bill.

Most of the legislators still favored the measure introduced by Rep. Francis Case, R., S. D., and supported by an influential group of Republicans and southern Democrats. They were confident that the Case bill—or one reasonably similar—would be passed.

Other supporters of strike-control legislation said they believed a more moderate bill would stand a better chance of getting through the Senate and obtaining President Truman's signature. A few said flatly they would not vote for the Case bill in its present form.

Opponents of new labor legislation said they would fight any attempt to weaken the Case bill. They based their strategy on the hope that the bill would be so strong that it either would be unacceptable to the Senate or would draw a veto if passed.

NEW CHARGES ARE MADE IN DEC. 7 PROBE

OFFICERS ORDERED TO DESTROY NOTES ABOUT SNEAK ATTACK

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2, (UP)—The Pearl Harbor committee was told today that the navy department ordered communication officers to keep their mouths shut and destroy any notes they had regarding events of the Pearl Harbor week-end.

The testifying officer, Capt. L. F. Safford, also declared the War and Navy departments got "72 hours advance notification of the attack on England and the United States" through interception of a Japanese "winds" code message on Dec. 4, 1941.

"It meant war—and we knew it meant war" he told a Senate-House committee investigating the Japanese attack.

Safford gave this story of the "note destroying" order: On Thursday or Friday after the Sunday of Pearl Harbor, he was called to the office of Rear Admiral Leigh Noyes, chief of naval communications. Safford was head of the intelligence unit of communications.

All other section heads were there and they were told there was a "whispering campaign" against Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, Pacific Fleet commander, and Adm. Claude C. Bloch, commandant of the 14th (Hawaiian) Naval District.

They were told that the "whispering campaign" must be stopped, admonished against "loose talk" and instructed to destroy personal notes and to pass the word along to their subordinates. Safford said he was not sure whether these instructions had come from Noyes or Capt. (now Rear Admiral) J. R. Redman, assistant chief of naval communications. Noyes first presided but was called out and Redman took over the meeting, he said.

But he said he had a clear understanding that the orders came down from Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

"It seemed a perfectly logical and fair order at the time," Safford said. He said he understood the order regarding destruction of notes was based on the thought that the notes might fall into the hands of persons who would indulge in "loose talk."

Br'er Groundhog Saw His Shadow

Brother Groundhog saw his shadow Saturday and according to legend this indicates six more weeks of winter.

The sun was out bright and cheerful at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and state weather forecasts were continued fair and mild.

Of course, the Groundhog tradition has no real bearing on future climatic conditions but a sunny February 2nd has been followed by bad weather in many years past, hence the saying there will be "six more weeks of winter."

HALL FARMER DIES

Walter P. Burgin died Thursday night at 9 o'clock at his home two miles south of Hall. He had been in ill health for the last two years, and because of it had held a closing out sale at his farm just two weeks ago. He had lived in the Hall community for 18 years, coming there from Indianapolis. He was born in Hendricks county June 27, 1885.

C. M. Furr Died At Cloverdale

Cornelius M. Furr, age 66 years, died at his home in Cloverdale Saturday morning after an illness of a few weeks.

Mr. Furr was widely known in Cloverdale, where he spent the greater part of his life. He served as trustee of Cloverdale township for one term and was active in his political party for many years.

Mr. Furr was born in Garrard county, Kentucky, the son of Wyatt H. and Mary McCarty Furr. He attended college at Williamsburg, Ky., and came to Indiana at the age of 21 years. He was married to Nannie Evans on September 2, 1902.

In addition to serving as trustee, he was township assessor for eight years and road superintendent for 16 years.

He is survived by the widow and two sons, Gerl Furr of Morristown and Glenn Furr of Cloverdale, and three daughters, Mrs. Cleo Truesdale, Indianapolis, Mrs. Aral Groner, Cloverdale, and Mrs. Ocie Mann of Danville.

There are seven grand children, Bill Furr Minnick, Robert G. Minnick, Geraldine Furr, Mack Furr, Ann Mann, Bruce Mann and Ruth Furr, also one brother, William P. Furr of Cloverdale, one sister, Mrs. Clemma Hubert, Terre Haute; a step-mother, 3 half brothers, and 3 half sisters of Garrard county, Ky.

He was a member of the Quince Baptist church for 20 years and of Diamond Lodge Knights of Pythias at Cloverdale.

The funeral will be at the Quince Baptist church Monday at two o'clock, the Rev. Cecil Fellers in charge. Burial will be in the Combs cemetery.

Earl S. Knauer Funeral Monday

Earl S. Knauer, age 52 years, passed away at his home in West Lafayette Friday afternoon suddenly, his death being due to a heart attack.

Mr. Knauer was well known here where he was born and reared and often visited. He was a son of the late John H. Knauer and Elizabeth Newgent Knauer. He was a veteran of World War I and was a member of the Cassel C. Tucker Post of the American Legion in Greencastle.

For many years he has served with the United States Treasury Department in the Internal Revenue Department, and was a Certified Public accountant. He was also a member of the Masonic lodge in Washington, D. C. and the B. P. O. Elks.

He is survived by the widow and two sons, Paul E. Knauer, S. 1 c. Great Lakes, Ill., and Russell G., at home, a brother, Jacob Knauer and a sister, Mrs. Nelson Wood, Greencastle, also a half-sister, Mrs. Floyd Fisher, Indianapolis.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist church in West Lafayette Monday at 11 o'clock. Short services will be held at the grave at two o'clock with burial in the Little Wauke cemetery northwest of Greencastle.

HOLDS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2, (UP)—President Truman conferred today with Price Administrator Chester Bowles as government efforts to end the steel strike apparently narrowed down to steel prices.

Bound up in the conference presumably was the question of whether the administration feels it can give the steel operators the price boost they say is necessary to meet Mr. Truman's wage proposals.

CREW OF UNITED AIRLINES' ILL-FATED TRANSPORT

RESCUE CREWS have succeeded in reaching the top of Elk Mountain, 65 miles northeast of Laramie, Wyo., where the wreckage of a missing eastbound United Airlines plane has been located. Eighteen passengers, 12 of whom were military personnel, and the three crew members, including Capt. Walther Briggs, Portland; Stewardess Dorothy Jean Carter, La Grande, Ore., and Co-Pilot H. M. Atlas, Portland, shown left to right above, died in the crash and subsequent fire. (International Soundphoto)

Nation Facing Grain Shortage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2, (UP)—A grain shortage so threatening that some officials are talking of the possible necessity of a return to rationing of meat and other animal foods will come up for full-scale cabinet discussion next Tuesday.

This was disclosed by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson today. He talked with a reporter just after a preliminary discussion with President Truman at the White House today. He met with Secretary of Commerce Wallace and representatives of Secretary of State Byrnes on the matter yesterday.

The situation is such that an unfavorable Spring and Summer crop season could reduce production of meats, fats and oils, and butter to a level where a return of rationing would be necessary to assure equitable distribution at home and to meet minimum export requirements. There are no indications so far of a bad season in this country, but severe drought is sharply curtailing grain production in southern Hemisphere countries.

Just back from London where he discussed Europe's food shortages reported that failure of this country to meet its export quota may condemn millions to dire hunger before the winter is over.

Some Agriculture Department grain authorities believe there is not enough wheat left to meet export promises.

Installed As UNO Secretary

LONDON, Feb. 2, (UP)—Trygve Lie will be installed as secretary general of the United Nations today while the UNO Security Council seeks a solution to the deep-rooted policy clash between Russia and Britain.

Lie was elected yesterday by the assembly, 46 to 3, in a session.

Children Help March Of Dimes

The sum of $29.50 for the March of Dimes was raised by a white elephant auction sale sponsored by the sixth grade club of Miller School the afternoon of January 31, in the school auditorium. Generous donations both in articles and money from grades four, five and six, together with the spirited bidding by the participants during the sale contributed toward making this a successful project.

This money, with the $14.09 collected in the room envelopes, makes a total of $43.50 that Miller School has given toward the Infantile Paralysis Fund.

Since the idea of a white elephant sale originated with Doyle McKeehan, he was appointed chairman of the sale committee. The auctioneers were Doyle McKeehan and Alice Van Cleave. The clerks were Dick Evans, Tommy Seeley and Dave Moffitt.

The club advertised the sale by a display of posters made during the art class.

Bradley Replies To Legion Head

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2, (UP)—American Legion Commander John Stelle appeared to be coming off second best today in a joust with Gen. Omar N. Bradley whose replacement he demanded.

Bradley, countering Stelle's charge of a "tragic breakdown" in the Veterans Administration, by inference traced the accusation to an argument over the location of a hospital in which Stelle was interested.

"I suspect that the charge comes from Stelle, not from the American Legion," Bradley said.

Stelle said in New York that he would not insist in Bradley's removal if it was shown that congressional help was needed in cutting red tape. But he did not retreat in his attack on the V.A. Stelle told a dinner meeting of the First District, New York Department of the Legion last night that an immediate reorganization of V.A. was imperative.

PAULEY ACCUSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UP)—California oil man Edwin W. Pauley, nominated by President Truman as undersecretary of Navy, stood accused today of trying to will a government suit for title to Tideland oil with promises of big campaign contributions.

The Senate Naval Affairs Committee recessed its hearings on Pauley's nomination for the weekend after Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes and former assistant Attorney General Norman Littell testified he tried to stop the suits. The hearings resume Monday.

Pauley, later recalled, said it was "not true" that he once approached Ickes with a proposition to quash the government suit in return for campaign contributions from oil men interested in the case. He said Ickes was "confused" in the matter.

PLANE CRASH KILLED 21 ON ELK MOUNTAIN

BODIES FOUND COVERED BY SNOW NEAR TOP OF WYOMING PEAK

ELK MOUNTAIN, Wyo., Feb. 2, (UP)—A team of Alaskan huskies was en route from Fort Robbin, Neb., today to aid in the removal of 21 bodies found amid the scattered wreckage of a transcontinental airliner.

The bodies, sprinkled with snow and strewn over a quarter of a mile area, were discovered late yesterday by a searching party which bucked freezing cold, snow drifts and gale-strength winds to scale the 11,000-foot Elk Mountain.

The United Airlines said that a group of UAL men, civil aeronautics authority officials and a postal inspector would set out at dawn for the crash scene, about 1,150 feet from the top of the mountain.

They were to be followed by a second party, carrying tobogganing equipment, and a dog team of 11 huskies to assist in bringing the bodies down from the peak.

Five men, first to visit the frozen sepulchre of the plane's 18 passengers and three crew members, made their way down the steep slope late last night to report their find.

Joseph and Ed Hicks, coal miners from nearby Hanna, Wyo., reached the spot first, followed within a few minutes by Allen Garbutt and Ray Leforde, Elmo, Wyo., and Stewart England, Cheyenne CAA official.

The scene they described as one of frozen death and unearthly silence. The bodies were partially covered by snow that had fallen since the crash early Thursday, and pieces of the plane's motors and fuselage lay cold and stark against the white surroundings.

The Hicks brothers said they counted 21 bodies scattered over a wide area on the face of the slope. They said the clothing had been torn off most of the bodies, but that they were only "singled," indicating that the ship had not burned.

"If there was a fire, it couldn't have been a big one," Joseph said. "It looked more as if a terrific blast of heat had occurred just as the plane crashed."

The men, cold and weary after a daylong struggle against the elements, said they had encountered waist-deep snow drifts and wind gusts up to 100 miles per hour on their way to the scene of the crash.

The Hicks brothers, who were more familiar with the treacherous mountain trails, rode in an army "snowmobile" to within 3,000 feet of the summit and proceeded the rest of the way on snow shoes.

Clouds, which shrouded the peak for nearly two days, cleared yesterday to enable aerial observers to confirm the tragedy from the air. Robert M. Melver, a United Air Lines test pilot, sighted the wreckage late yesterday and radioed his base in Cheyenne that the liner appeared to be "completely demolished." He said then that the passengers and crew were "undoubtedly dead."

The five men reached the peak yesterday after three other parties had been forced back by the bitter cold. The other searchers included United Air Lines officials, alpine troops from Fort Warren, Wyo., and residents and sheepherders of this mountain area.

The Cheyenne Weather Bureau, however, estimated temperatures at 40 degrees below zero at the mountaintop where the plane crashed and said the searchers had battled winds ranging between 70 and 80 miles per hour.

sion that was overshadowed by the sharply worded argument in the security council over Russian attacks on British policy in Greece.

The Russian-British clash remained the dominant question today. The security council will meet again Monday to face Russia's demand for removal of British troops from Greece, and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's request for a straightforward decision as to whether Britain is threatening peace in Greece.

Whereas the Russian-Greek dispute had a clear way open to compromise, Bevin demanded a clear-cut stand by the council on the Russian charges. He countered Russian charges with a statement that Moscow propaganda against Britain and international Communist party activities would be the greatest danger to world peace.

The next meeting will be at the home of Lulu Huffman Feb. 27th.

COME TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Weekly CHURCH MESSAGE

By H. C. Fellers

The Chinese have no word with which to translate our word "crisis" so they use a phrase which, literally translated, reads "dangerous opportunity." The phrase seems to describe our present day, a day in which there is much danger, but one in which there is also great opportunity.

The decisions our world makes in this day will determine the destiny of all mankind. If we keep alive the nationalistic prejudices, economic hatreds, and racial and religious prejudices that have characterized the past, there is no hope for humanity. Former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts recently said, "The United States chooses a policy of military might we are going to have to fight again, and if we win, what we win will not be worth having." His statement should be enlarged to read, "The world chooses a policy of military might" etc.

The thinking of real Christians has always transcended the boundary lines of nations, creeds and colors. In spite of war the bonds of fellowship have lived and grown. Two of our best friends were interned three and a half years in the Philippines. They told us of the kindly treatment they received from a Christian Japanese officer, serving under Yamashita. This officer tried to be kind to all the people under his authority, and was later removed from his command because of this Christian virtue. Christians of England and other lands, their own churches destroyed, are helping to rebuild the churches of Germany, so the German people may worship again as in the days before Hitler.

This is not soft-hearted sentimentalism, but hard-boiled realism. These Christians see that unless someone leads the way to fellowship there can be no peace. The churches of Greencastle are part of the world church. As such we have a part in the task of rebuilding our world.

And the church is you. In these days of dangerous opportunity everyone needs to ask himself, "Am I helping to break down the barriers of creed, nationality, and color, or am I trying to keep alive the hatreds of the Jew, the foreign born, and the tinted-skinned peoples of the earth? Do I realize that, though Hitler's empire has been broken, Hitlerism still lives wherever these prejudices are found? Do I care if millions of people of Asia and Europe starve or die of disease this winter? Am I as willing to pay for peace as I was willing to pay for military victory?"

Dr. Cleo Blackburn, head of Flanner House in Indianapolis, stated the fundamental problem of our day in the words, "Peace begins at home . . . in your town and my town . . . in your house and my house . . . in your heart and my heart."

Real religion is two fold: The worshiper looks to God for spiritual strength, and then he uses that strength to build a godlike

There is more pleasure in loving than in being loved.

world. "Pure religion and undefiled before God the Father is this, to visit the widows and fatherless in their affliction, and to keep oneself unstained by the world."

To this two fold way of life the church calls today.

NEWS in the WORLD RELIGION

After more than five years' absence from India, scene of his earliest missionary evangelism, Dr. E. Stanley Jones, noted Methodist missionary and evangelist, has sailed for that land. He will remain in India for five months, holding services and conducting ashrams (Indian retreats), then return to America for six months of similar meetings here. During the years of his absence from India, he has addressed hundreds of thousands of people in the United States, Canada, Alaska, Puerto Rico, Mexico, and South America.

Dr. John Leighton Stuart, president of Yenching University, Peiping, China, since 1919, is now in the United States after almost four years of internment by the Japanese. He is now working on plans for the rehabilitation of the University on its old Peiping campus. During the war, most of the University's services were conducted in Chengtu, thousands of miles away. A number of American and British missionary agencies unite in conducting the institution. China, says Dr. Stuart, has before it vast reconstruction and modernization tasks, and the best help that Christians can give that land is to help train the technical and professional men needed.

The President of the Republic of Cuba recently presented to the Methodist Children's Dispensary in Jovellanos, Cuba, a check for $1,000. But because the sum had come from the proceeds of the Cuban National Lottery, the officers of the Dispensary, the pastor, and the district superintendent voted unanimously to return the unsolicited gift. "We have struggled hard to help the poor and the sick children," says an officer, "but we prefer to continue the struggle rather than to accept that which would stain our souls in accepting."

More than half the Methodist schools in Japan were destroyed in the war, according to reports made by Richard T. Baker, of the Methodist Board of Missions staff, now in Tokyo. The Chinsai Middle School and the Kwassui Gakuin in Nagasaki, and the Methodist Girls School in Hiroshima were totally destroyed by the atomic bombs that struck those cities, he reports; at Nagasaki 14 teachers and 175 students were killed; at Hiroshima the deaths included 17 teachers and 250 students. Two-thirds of the famed Aoyama Gakuin, Methodist college in Tokyo, was burned, together with the homes of 62 teachers and 795 students. The Methodist Girls School in Sukuoka was burned, together with the homes of ten teachers and 122 students. Remaining, relatively undamaged are the Hirotsuki Girls School, the Lai Girls School in Hakodate, the Kwansai Gakuin in Kobe, and the Toogijuku Boys School in Hirotsuki.

Six suggestions are made by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America as to what individuals can do to promote better relations among the races in American life: "Examine your own heart and mind for lurking prejudice and hostility toward persons of other racial or cultural groups; and refrain from judgement about them without understanding the facts. Practice in daily contacts personal beliefs in the human value and dignity of each person. Enlist for definite tasks to promote interracial brotherhood in the organizations of your community. Become informed and active in legislation for permanent fair employment practices in your state and the nation. Work to see that racial segregation is removed from the armed services. "The religious freedom guaranteed us by the Constitution was not intended to promote religious indifference," says Dr. John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education. "Rather it was meant to guarantee our rights as individuals to achieve a personal awareness of unseen reality as revealed in diverse ways and as represented by various doctrinal beliefs. Three unifying elements in our common citizenship are the belief in a loving Heavenly Father, in the intrinsic worth of human beings, and teachings of secular schools and they are given added personal relevance and doctrinal reinforcement by the home and by the church school. Secular education and religious education are not only compatible with each other but complementary in character. They are twin pillars of democracy. Upon them rests a responsibility for building citizens worthy of the spiritual inheritance which is ours as a people."
